This presentation will provide a broad, data-driven overview of facts about economic inequality. After this broad overview, we will introduce positive and normative frameworks for thinking about inequality into a discussion of intergenerational mobility, with a special focus on U.S. higher education.